Although the Legion Sports affair on Dominion Day did not draw as large a crowd as usual, a very good time was had by those present. The first event of the day was a softball game, between teams composed of old timers, mostly married men, and boys. The players on the men's team were R. D. Smallwood, R. H. Ott, W. Stewart, W. Goodwin, Geo. Batchelor, C. Steele, S. Fenton, W. Hilder, E. Sharkey and W. Steele. On the boys' team we had two imported players to assist the locals. These were Dick Bland all the way from St. Louis, Miss., and Gordon Schlett from Wainwright. Besides these there were E. Steele, G. Inkis, M. Drummond, H. Kasten, M. Webster, P. Congdon, and R. McFarland. Comrade M. D. Askin was the official referee. This surely was an interesting game watching such heavy sluggers and fast sprinters as Reeve Smallwood, Com. Batchelor and Old Man Sharkey. With a little more practice these fellows will become real ball players yet. And now that Comrade Askin has made his debut as an umpire his services no doubt will be in great demand throughout the summer. We understand he is being recommended for a medal for distinguished service on July 1st in the face of the enemy. Be that as it may when the order was given to cease fire the score was about six to a dozen in favor of the boys, which shows they had practised for the big event.

A number of races for the kiddies were run off and they also took part in a tug-of-war. The final softball game was played between an Irma boys' team and the Crescent Hill-Bushberry team and resulted in a win for the visitors by a wide margin. The Legion booth on the grounds catered to the needs of the crowd in a very efficient manner. A dance in Keifer's hall from 9 to 12 in the evening with Lindquist orchestra supplying the music brought the day to a close.

Baseball

Saturday, July 1st, saw the Irma Seniors taking part in the Mannville Sports and playing heads up baseball to capture the first prize of $75. In the first game of the day Vermillion defeated Minburn. Then Irma played their first game against the Myram Beavers and emerged victorious by a 3-1 score. Phil Inkis pitched for the winners. The next game was between Irma and Mannville, the latter having drawn a bye in the first round. For Ralph Lukens, a dream which is every pitcher's came true when he pitched a no hit-no run game. The score was Irma 9, Mannville 0. In the final game Bill Inkis pitched the Irma team to a 7-3 victory over Vermillion in the best game of the day.

Harold Lisson led the Irma batters as he felled only once to reach first base safely in the three games and having a total of nine stolen bases to his credit.

The Irma line-up and batting order was as follows:
Harold Lisson, 2B
Bob Maguire, S.S.
Les Hughes, 3B
Ralph Lukens, P, 3B, R.F.
Claire Lukens, C.F.
Art Laison, C.
Bill Inkis, P, R.F.
Albert Glasgow, 1B.
Philip Inkis, P.

NEWS ITEMS FROM JARROW

A very severe thunder storm swept over our community last Friday night. Lightning struck certain homes but no serious damage was done.

Mrs. Gordon Holt is attending the summer school at the University in Edmonton. Miss Lucille Mark of Kinsella has been engaged to remain with Mrs. Holt.

For the summer months the time of Services in the Jarrow United Church will be as follows:
Sunday School at 11 o'clock and preaching service at 12 o'clock.

Mr. William Boyd spent a few days in Edmonton.
Batt School sports were held as usual on the last day of school, Friday, June 30th.

The number present greatly enjoyed the ball games and races. The women who had charge of the booths did well financially.

We hope that our school teacher, Miss Eileen Ross of Viking, will return to us next fall.

Misses Jean Whidden and Genon Thorou of Batt have returned for the summer after spending the school year in Irma.

Mrs. Ed. Peet is leaving this week for Victoria, B.C., where she and her young son, Glen, expect to spend the summer months.

Mrs. W. Lindquist has returned home after spending a few days with her two sisters, Edna and Ethel in Chigwell.

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. STRANGE

"The agricultural scientist has helped farmers to make two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, and has assisted in many ways to increase farm production, but what does the agricultural scientist now intend to do in helping to distribute or to market these products now held as unsold surpluses?"

This was part of the address of welcome by Mayor Telford, of Vancouver, to the recent conventions of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association and of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists.

One part of the answer given to His Honor the Mayor was that besides increasing production the scientists had also greatly increased quality, and that it was this superior quality contained in Canadian grains and in alfalfa, grass, field root and garden vegetable seeds, that was enabling these stocks to be sold in foreign countries in much larger quantities than could be done had the extra quality not been

The scientists admitted, however, that in spite of the extra quality there were still unsold surpluses, and that, therefore, something else is needed too. What this something else was explained by the agricultural economists, and that important matter I will discuss in a forthcoming article.

Family Picnic

On Sunday, July 2nd, the Peterson and Stuart families met at the Buffalo Park, Wainwright, for a picnic in honor of the California relatives Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Shantz (nee Lennie Peterson) and their three children, Jerry, Donald and Edith, also Mr. Harry Shantz and sister, Birdina.

There were 64 present and a real get-together was had by all. Grandma Peterson, in her 83 years, was present and thoroughly enjoyed herself. Mr. Chas. Peterson has a large music store at Hanford, Cal., Mr. Merle Shantz is manager of a lumber yard at Selma, Cal., Mr. Harry Shantz is mathematics teacher in Valerius High School. Miss Birdina Schantz is interested in a mission home in Syracuse, N.Y. The Shantz's who are old friends of the Peterson since 1903 used to live at Didsbury, Alta, and had a reunion there after a separation of 20 years with their mother, sisters, brothers and families. They have all left for their different homes, glad to have visited Alberta relatives and friends again.

A Declining Industry?

The fact that the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported a decrease of $21,000,000 in 1938 in expenditures made in Canada by incoming tourists is something which should give pause for reflection and inquiry, in the hope that this falling off in national income on this account can be discovered and the remedy found.

Tourist traffic in Canada has become a national industry of great importance to the prosperity of the country in the past few years. While in one or two years prior to the depression era higher figures were shown, the revenue to the people of this Dominion from this source has been steadily rising since 1932, reaching a post-depression peak of $294,682,000 in 1937 which, however, is still below the $309,379,000 of the record year of 1929. The following year, 1938, marked a recession of $21,000,000, the first, and it is to be hoped the last, decline since 1932.

What 1939 is to bring forth from this source is still in the lap of the gods, so far as the statisticians are concerned, but there seem to be some good reasons why the income lost in 1938 should be picked up and augmented.

Some Helpful Factors

In the first place, the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth drew thousands of Americans across the boundary to Canadian centres in May and June this year and this alone should go far towards balancing the differential between the 1937 and 1938 figures. Just about that time, and since, some improvement in business and economic conditions on both sides of the international boundary are reported, and this, in the ordinary course of events, should mean a material stimulus to this comparatively infant industry in Canada.

In some quarters it has been suggested that the condition of the roads in Canada, and particularly in the west, may have been partially responsible for the recent decline in the number of visitors from the United States, or at least in the amount of money they have spent here.

While there may be some truth in this diagnosis, it does not appear to be the major item in the reduction, since a break down of the figures indicates that the loss occasioned by a reduction in expenditures by tourists who came into Canada in 1938 by automobile is only approximately one million dollars.

While a reduction of one million dollars out of a total of $181,000,000 spent by tourists on wheels from the U.S. in 1937 is not a serious matter, it is a trend in the wrong direction and there is some possibility that road conditions may be partly responsible. Moreover, had the increase from 1936 to 1937 been sustained in 1938, the income from American tourists on the road would have shown an increase of $22,000,000 instead of decline of a million, or sufficient to offset the loss caused by the reduction of those who came in as visitors by boat, rail and aeroplane; in other words, an apparent loss of $23,000,000.

Need Improvement

Roads in Western Canada are not as good as they might be and probably would be if the provincial governments had the money to spend to put them in first class condition. On account of economic conditions they have necessarily been allowed to deteriorate and their condition has not been improved by a substantial increase in the past two or three years of heavy truck traffic.

Before these conditions are likely to be remedied and the highways put in a condition that will make them attractive to visitors from a country where good roads are the rule rather than the exception, it looks as if substantial sums of money will have to be expended and possibly further restrictions imposed on commercial trucks using the highways.

Taking into consideration the financial handicaps under which the provinces are laboring and the fact that the tourist industry is, or should be, a national asset, it would appear to be quite in order to suggest that further assistance might well be given by the federal government to the west to enable the provinces to embark on a more vigorous highway rehabilitation program than is now possible. It would seem conceivable that it would be money well expended and in time would pay dividends not only to the provinces themselves but the country as a whole.

Then, too, it should not be overlooked that such work could be planned and devised to furnish employment and wages for a large number of men now idle and who are now being sustained by the country without any return for their upkeep for the country.

The importance of the tourist industry is well summed up by Claude C. Bonter in a recent issue of "Canadian Business" when he says: "It may be unequivocally stated that revenues accruing to a country from tourist traffic represent net gains in the country's wealth. They constitute the great invisible balance of trade. Unlike other forms of trade, the tourist industry produces a dollar which is exchanged only for accommodation and services, rather than for exportable material. The country, in other words gains a dollar and loses nothing."

Tossed A Coin

How Two Scotsmen Decided On Their Holdings In Quebec

Two hundred years after Jacques Cartier's return to France, two Scotsmen stood on the shores of La Malabar river in Quebec and tossed a coin to determine who would take the east side and who the west side of the domain. Both had served during the conquest under General Murray who granted them crown land at this location.

As a result of the toss, the east side fell to Malcolm Fraser and he named it Mount Murray in honor of his distinguished general. The west side came under the jurisdiction of John Nairne who also honored his general by calling it Murray bay. It is interesting to note that on Nairne's property is to-day one of Canada's most popular vacation resorts, the historic Manoir Richelieu.

Vegetable Origins

They Come To Us As A Heritage From The Whole World

A few common beans once brought a price of $1,000, although $5,000 would have been paid for them by the famous Burpee. They were for what is now known as the bush lima bean plant, which up to that time had grown as a climber on poles. An article in The Saturday Evening Post gives considerable history of how many of the finest products of the vegetable garden have been discovered.

Few people realize that the vegetable plot, however small, is a heritage from the whole world; corn, beans and squash were first civilized for it by the ancient cliff dwellers of the Southwest; your onions came from Palestine; your asparagus from Algeria; North Europe gave you cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower; the tomatoes came from Peru; your muskmelons from Persia, watermelons from Africa; beets and carrots are native to South Europe; your peas came from Egypt and your lettuce from China. It passes understanding how these plant immigrants from so many climes can adapt themselves to a land so different in soil, climate, latitude and altitude as undersea Imperial Valley, sea-level New Jersey, mile-high Colorado, tropical Florida and Northern Ontario.

As the writer concludes: "They don't always do it willingly, and that's why, on the seafarers' farms, the watchword is cross, backcross and doublecross."

Risk Of Food Shortage

Urges Britain To Buy Supplies Of Wheat From Canada

Sir Herbert Matthews, member of the Great War food ministry, told the congress of industrial transport that the United Kingdom runs a greater risk of food shortage at the outbreak of another war than in 1914.

The government food defence committee has no food to control and no means of defending it if they possessed it, he charged.

The wartime minister said that if the government were alive to its responsibilities, it would make large purchases of Canadian wheat immediately.

"We have a large capacity for oil," Sir Herbert said, "but in the most vulnerable positions. Like the supplies of wheat, this oil should be spread over the country so that it might be readily available in times of emergency."

"Taking all things into consideration, this country is in a far weaker position as regards its food supply than in 1914. The population is much larger, the number of merchant ships is much smaller, the land is in poor, half-starved condition and the number of farm workers has been largely reduced."

Prophecy Of What Might Happen In Europe This Fall

Prime Minister Chamberlain advised people who want to know what's going to happen in Europe this fall to look it up in Old Moore's almanac, an annual publication popular in England. Mr. Chamberlain was addressing a Conservative party rally at Cardiff, Wales.

"Old Moore's is as likely to be right as I," he added.

And here is what Old Moore says: "In the first half of September there are signs of much tension in Berlin to be followed by calm in the latter half."

"In October foreign affairs will continue to be of supreme importance inasmuch as Venus is culminating at both Rome and Berlin."

"There is good ground for anticipating that the cause of peace will make further great headway, for conditions are certainly most propitious for a real and lasting understanding on a very wide and comprehensive scale."

Made Transfer Easy

How Wealthy German Got $50,000 In Stocks To England

Where there's a will there's a way. Listen to this story which is going round knowledgeable circles in London of the successful efforts of a wealthy German, now in London, to transfer £50,000 to England by an astute move.

A short time ago a firm of London solicitors received a letter from a German industrialist, asking one of its partners to visit him in Berlin. The expenses of the journey were to be amply defrayed. The solicitor duly arrived and after dinner was asked by the German to look through a number of English stock certificates that he had had before the Nazi regime, under which it was impossible to bring them to England. The London solicitor duly examined the certificates and made a note of them. The German then said: "Will you be so kind as to watch me carefully while I put each of these certificates in the fire?" He did so. Next day the solicitor returned to London, followed a few days later by his client, who did not even bring with him so much as an attache case.

In London, at the German's request, the solicitor filed an affidavit proving the destruction of the stock certificates, and after the necessary lapse of six months new certificates were issued. The German thus found himself again in possession of his £50,000, but in London!—Overseas Daily Mail.

The Escort Ships

Glasgow And Southampton Do Not Rank With Battle-Cruisers

The two cruisers that escorted the King and Queen on their return voyage in the Empress of Britain are splendid, modern vessels, the Southampton and the Glasgow, commissioned in 1933 and 1934, respectively.

The cruisers are sister vessels of 9,100 tons with a complement of 700 men. They are armed with 12 6-inch guns and eight 4-inch guns, carry two airplanes and can speed 33 knots an hour. They are oil driven. They are not capital ships and do not rank with battle-cruisers or battleships.

During the Great War a light British cruiser called the Glasgow escaped from the disastrous battle of Coronel when the German Von Spee squadron in which two heavy British cruisers were sunk. The Glasgow joined forces with two British battle-cruisers and at the battle of the Falkland Islands a few weeks later destroyed a German light cruiser.

The German squadron was wiped out. The admiralty will keep the name Glasgow well represented in the British navy.—Toronto Star.

Books Written By Women

Collector Hopes To Have Every Country In World Represented

Grace Thompson Seton, one-time big game hunter and explorer, is using an interlude and her worldwide friendships with women to hunt out books written by women.

Her goal is to complete for the National Council of Women, of which she is chairman of the committee of letters, a collection of books by women in which every country in the world will be represented. The collection will be known as the Bibliotheca Femina and will not only cover the range of women's particular interests but will contain science, sociology, art and travel treatises.

Canada will be well represented in this unique library as Mrs. Seton has a special kinship with the Dominion. She is the former wife of Ernest Thompson Seton, one-time naturalist to the Government of Manitoba. It is likely one of her own works, "A Woman Tenderfoot in the Rockies," will find a place on the shelves of the Bibliotheca Femina.

Her organization for the library has a world-wide base, she said. Every country has its chairman of letters on whom she relies for a selection of its representative women writers.

From the data she has collected, Mrs. Seton says she has discovered that "whereas the position of women in Europe is declining under the totalitarian governments, it is steadily rising in the Orient." Chinese women particularly, she said, continue to absorb the "eye-opening learning" of the Occident and have come out from the "orchid doors" into the world of business, education and medicine—and now even into the auxiliary army corps.

Long Range Field Gun

U.S. Gun Throws A 100-Pound Shell For 15 Miles

The United States army lifted secrecy from its newest and longest range field gun, a weapon that hurls a 100-pound shell 15 miles.

A 155-millimetre calibre gun, bulky but mobile, it fired a projectile in tests at Fort Bragg, N.C., which travelled about 25,000 yards and blew a hole 16 feet in the ground.

The shot was the longest ever fired from a standard American army field gun, Colonel Ralph M. Pennell, chairman of the Field Artillery Board, reported.

The weapon, developed by the army's own ordnance experts, has been adopted as standard for long range artillery fire and an undisclosed number are being turned out now at arsenals.

Describing it in the military periodical, "Army Ordnance," Pennell explained its function was bombardment of enemy reserves, supply dumps and communications far behind wartime lines of battle.

Beautiful women whose coloring ranges from brick red to almost white, have been found in a strange tribe just discovered in New Guinea. Reports received in Rabaul declare the people of the district live in a state of constant inter-tribal warfare. The women carry the bones of dead relatives about with them in bags of net on their backs. They do not have to work hard, so just have a good time.

The Spinning spools of the spiders are openings to internal silk glands, and the thickness of the thread depends on the number of glands put into action.

By S. J. Dornan, C.W.N.A. Representative on the Press Pilot Train

Fourth Release Covering the Visit of Their Majesties at the Pacific Coast, Return Through Western Canada and Northern and Western Ontario

Sunday morning by Royal command, Their Majesties attended a special service in the United Church of Canada at Portage la Prairie. Arriving in Winnipeg shortly after 11 a.m. I had a walk around the Union Station and there found that the soldier patients from Deer Lodge Hospital had been brought to the station by special order from Ottawa. (This item was missed by some error on the westward trip) and there awaited Their Majesties arrival. Only the patients of the hospital with the officials and a few provincial dignitaries were present. While in Winnipeg both trains were given attention, and when they left for the long run to Sudbury, they were shining and fully serviced. It is worthy of mention that the railway men at all points were well drilled on their duties and not a moment was lost.

TIT BITS. The pilot train carries 95 members of the R.C.M.P. under the command of Major (Superintendent) Kemp of Ottawa. We have also Inspector Canning of Scotland Yard, Walter Scott Thompson, Chairman of the Press Sub-Committee, is also along and it was with his world wide experience, who planned this train and all its details. There has not been one hitch as yet and the heaviest part of the trip is over. Walter has with him his own picked staff of assistants. Only three tickets were available for the Canadian writers to attend the much publicised garden party to be given in honor of Their Majesties, by Sir Ronald and Lady Lindsay, at the British Embassy in Washington, D.C. Twenty names were placed in a hat in order to pick those who were to attend and either it or not the C.W.N.A. was the first name drawn. American writers claim that at least 50,000 applications were received for invitations to this function. Only 1300 will be present. It takes place on Thursday afternoon.

At Ridditt, Man., on Sunday, we witnessed a very lovely sight. Here a large gathering was present and all from some considerable distance. Amongst this crowd were 150 pupils from Cecilia Jeffrey Freestonian Indian School, along with their teachers. I met a friend at this point who is on the staff of this school, Miss Valena Mahood. The school had its band along and rendered several very pleasing selections. The school is located at Keewatin, Ont.

Sioux Lookout had another large gathering. At this point we were running about an hour behind time. Sudbury presented a wonderful sight. 15,000 school children were gathered together and greeted Their Majesties with singing. In all there were 100,000 persons in this city gathered together from many points in Northern Ontario. The crowd included 800 Mayors, Reeves and Councilors from the communities mentioned. While awaiting the Royal party a little lad called Kenneth Webster was asked his opinion of the glorious sight he was witnessing and his main impression was the motorcycle police, who were patrolling the streets and later acted as escorts for Their Majesties and party. He, incidentally, said hello to his dad over the radio.

By special arrangements Their Majesties and a select party were taken down the International Nickel (Frood Mine) to a depth of 2,800 feet. Dressed in oil skin covers, the party spent nearly one hour in the mine and vicinity. Some expressions heard at Sudbury: "My, oh my, isn't she lovely; really more lovely than I ever dreamed." "I thought the newspapers had gone nuts on the Queen, but they only half told the truth; she is indeed grand." And so on and so on.

Toronto gave the King and Queen another great acclaim; the thirty minute stop at the Queen City was informal. However, many thousands of citizens made it a point to be in the vicinity of the Union Station to greet Their Majesties. In spite of all that the police could do the crowd broke the lines and swarmed around the Royal car and were rewarded with a gracious reception by both of Their Majesties.

En route to Toronto at a farming community where the royal train halted to be serviced a sturdy farmer shouted "Hi-ya King," to which His Majesty replied, "I'm fine. How are you?"

Guelph rendered a good account of itself and community by turning out in thousands; the scheduled stop at drick Van Loon.

this city was extended considerably as the King and Queen walked about amongst the veterans and talked with scores of them. Prime Minister Mackenzie King did a magnanimous thing when he called especially on Col. Drew, leader of the Conservative opposition in the Ontario legislature, and had him again presented to Their Majesties. Colonel Drew was taken by surprise and the surprise was quite evident in his manner, but he soon became cool and collected and chatted with both the King and Queen. Kitchener, Stratford, St. Mary's, Glencoe and London were all repetitions of what has been taking place throughout Western Ontario.

Wednesday we passed through Ingersoll, after spending the night at London. At this point, also at Woodstock, Paris Junction, Brantford and Hamilton, the loyalty and affection displayed for Their Majesties was colonial. As I bring this story to a close as we approach Niagara Falls I have been deeply impressed with the fervor and exhilaration which the loyal province of Ontario has displayed towards our Sovereigns.

Tit-bits: Her Majesty expressed last evening a desire to bring her two daughters to Canada to see this beautiful country; she stated that she would like to be along with them, she selected the month of June for the visit. I stopped off the royal press train for a few hours in Toronto and while there was the target for numerous questions. All I could say, and it was said in all sincerity, the entire trip has been a grand, glorious and triumphant one which will long remain in the memory of the 3,500,000 citizens who have already seen Their Majesties this far. The King has broken every known regulation which usually governs the appearance of His Majesty in public; he has walked away from the guards which were to protect his person and that of his beloved and charming Consort; he has shaken hands with ten times as many ordinary people as he has with those officially presented to him; in fact both Their Majesties have completely won the entire populace, of all parts, by their very democratic yet aristocratic bearing.

Niagara Falls: The reception here was just like the falls, it was terrific; the influx of visitors from the U.S.A. added to many thousands from this corner of Ontario, made a great impression. At this point it was my extremely good fortune to meet Mr. and Mrs. Clarence V. Charters and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Charters, all of Brampton, Ontario. This chance meeting with valued friends made the visit here very pleasant in spite of a most ridiculous display of police precautions. The Brock Hotel was taken over by the police fully an hour before Their Majesties and en tourage arrived; it was utterly impossible to get anything to eat, either in or out of the hotel, and the guests and others were jostled and ordered around as if they were non-British subjects. Precaution is better than cure, but the use of a little judgement would make the problem much easier for all concerned. Added to the tremendous clamor of the crowd was the stupendous roar of the falls as the King and Queen stepped out on the balcony of the hotel. Later tonight the falls will be illuminated and this will be a sight for those who have not previously enjoyed same. It was noticeable that there were very few flags displayed on the American side, but this will be corrected later, I fully expect. Now for the United States.
